The BMP-23 is a modern evolution of the Bushmaster Arm Pistol, originally designed by Mack Gwinn Jr. in the early 1970s. Chambered in 5.56 NATO, it features an 11.5-inch barrel, AK-style gas piston operating system, and a lightweight aluminum/steel chassis weighing just 5.2 lbs. Designed for ambidextrous use, its 40-degree swivel capability makes it ideal for right- or left-handed shooters.

New for this year, the Hydra-10 in 8.6 Blackout with a 16-inch barrel configuration delivers powerful, game-stopping performance. This rifle runs on SR-25 magazines, features DPMS-patterned compatibility, and ships with Hydra's proprietary Quick-Change Barrel Upper Receiver (QCB-D). Designed for versatility, the Hydra-10 system allows for rapid caliber conversions by swapping the barrel and bolt – ideal for users operating across multiple applications. The rifle is outfitted with a B5 Systems stock and pistol grip and is purpose-built for those seeking maximum adaptability with the stopping power of a larger caliber.

The Hydra Survival Package (4 Caliber Kit) shows versatility in one rugged case. This all-in-one survival kit includes four caliber conversion options: 9mm/.40 S&W/.45 ACP/10mm, 5.56 NATO, 7.62x9mm, and .300 Blackout. Swap calibers quickly with Hydra's renowned modular components, ensuring you are ready for any scenario.
